

Most misprogramming or misuses thereof happen in circumstances that this rule change would not prevent or properly address. There would be no positive effect from this to offset the additional paperwork and regulations that would be heaped upon the existing, law-abiding users who are not creating the problem in the first place.

Additionally, this proposal places new restrictions and responsibilities upon amateur radio operators that are inconsistent with the history and philosophy of that service, again, to no apparent benefit.